Deutz-Fahr's new final tier 4 orchard/vineyard tractors only use a diesel oxidation catalyst (DOC) to meet the latest emission requirements. Power comes from a 3.8L, four-cylinder engine, turbocharged and intercooled, which is the largest engine in this tractor class. The DOC ensures reliability and simplicity of operation (doesn't require any regen cycle) while maintaining a low-profile hood line. Standard equipment includes four-wheel braking, front and rear differential lock, and various transmission and width configurations to meet the demanding needs of specialty tractor applications.

Deutz-Fahr's new final tier 4 orchard/vineyard tractors only use a diesel oxidation catalyst (DOC) to meet the latest emission requirements. Power comes from a 3.8L, four-cylinder engine, turbocharged and intercooled, which is the largest engine in this tractor class. The DOC ensures reliability and simplicity of operation (doesn't require any regen cycle) while maintaining a low-profile hood line. Standard equipment includes four-wheel braking, front and rear differential lock, and various transmission and width configurations to meet the demanding needs of specialty tractor applications.
